I don't have a pet. If I could have a pet, I would like to have a Yorkshire Terrier (Yorkie).

A few interesting facts about Yorkies:

According to google.com,

-The Yorkshire Terrier (Yorkie) is sometimes called a toy breed dog - a very small dog.)

According to en.m.wikipedia.org,

-The Yorkshire Terrier is the smallest dog of any dog breed. -It's maximum weight, ideally, is 7 pounds.

-The breed developed during the 19th century in Yorkshire, England. (Think that might be how it got its name?)

-Yorkshire Terriers are very playful and energetic dogs.

According to animalplanet.com

-The Yorkie is considered hypoallergenic.

-They are little dogs with big personalities.

-They make great companion dogs.

How I'd take care of my dog.:

If I had a Yorkie, I'd feed it and make sure it ate healthy food and got plenty of water every day like my parents do for me. I would bathe it and brush its hair and keep it well groomed and make sure it looked good. It would be the prettiest dog around. I would take it for walks every day. That way, we both would get plenty of exercise. I would remind my parents to make sure that it got annual checkups at the vet — kinda like my mom does with me and my pediatrician.
